Teachers' Day 2024 - The Pandemonium Before The Success. Lakshya Arora, XII B

An eve before teachers' day, the prefects were scattered all over the academic block. Dance rehearsals, shooting of the play, editing of the finalized clippings, collecting pictures, decorating, blowing balloons, and making an itinerary were amongst the many activities that were happening simultaneously. Students had been working in their Wednesday uniforms since morning. The sweat and panic in the boys had a sweet cover of gratitude and commitment over it. We were committed to building a day full of joy and emotions for our teachers. To be honest, decorating the Faculty Resource Centre is a lot of effort, but what makes it fun is exploring a place that we are often kept out of, I honestly went everywhere inside the FRC and explored it. This collaborative effort needed a lot of organization and management, we were constantly checking things off from the To-do list made by the Senior School Prefect. Once the balloons were ready, we had to bind them in pairs of four to put them on, alongside other decorations. We went for a carnival vibe with a lot of hangings since we had planned several games for the teachers. With the games, we wanted to do something different, apart from the traditional game of Treasure Hunt. We had spent all day long to decide the games. We finalized Never Have I Ever, Two Truths and One Lie and Squid Games as the final few games. While all of this was happening, we were also editing the two videos that are displayed on Teachers' Day. We wanted these videos to be perfect! While we were editing the video for the mimicry play, we were shocked to see how on some clips the audio had not been recorded, this made us panic for a bit, but we managed. We started taking voice overs, and I must say that our actors are good at lip syncing. As last-minute issues emerged, we started finding solutions for each one of them. Talking about issues, the Wi-Fi server was also down for a while that day, which made it even harder for the editors and sound in charges to work, but we worked till 3 am in the morning to finish everything. Since it was late at night, we obviously had to explore the incredibly attractive coffee machine in the FRC. With little energy left, we went to make ourselves some cups of coffee, but the machine was out of milk! However, one of us found a packet of milk in the fridge. We tried to make coffee, but it was as if the machine had been instructed to not make coffee for students, the machine simply did not work! The students were no less and we decided to drink cold coffee without froth. Before you wonder, we cleaned the cups after use. It is important to mention that the sofas in the FRC are comfortable to lay on, the air conditioners are also brilliant. We were then done with the decorations and prep for the main day. Towards the end, there were around twelve of us in the FRC. After a short power nap, we rushed toward the academic block to finalize the decorations. It was lovely to see all our teachers smiling and laughing. We had decided to give them a day of rest, thus all their classes were taken by the students. During school hours, we played games, distributed gift bags, and cut a cake. The gift bag included a personalized diary and pen-drive along with a set of pens and a portrait of each teacher. Towards the end of the day, we had planned a cultural program and a special dinner for our teachers. The cultural program began with each teacher entering the hall on a special song dedicated to them. Everybody then saw a video on teachers' day. Lakshya Sharma mimicked our teachers with a fun twist. The PSYX band performed the song 'Fitoor' for the teachers. After the award ceremony, the junior classes were asked to leave and class twelve and the teachers then saw a play "Suspects of Scindia" where all teachers were the suspects of a murder! Well, how did certain teachers prove if they were innocent or not, who was the murderer and when did it happen is a secret that only our teachers and the batch of 2025 know. After the program, we proceeded for dinner. This day strengthened the bond between our teachers and us. Every little contribution counted, whether it was our play, or the handmade cards made by the little scindians from junior school. The day was a memorable one and the Scindia family became closer and stronger! We must remember that besides the 5th of September, we must always take a moment to express our gratitude to our teachers, since there is so much that they do for us and at times most of it is hidden from us. With only love and gratitude, I wish every teacher a Happy Teachers' Day!

A glimpse of the show

Madhav House Triumphs Over Shivaji in a Basketball Showdown

In what can only be described as a thrilling safari on the court, Madhav House, affectionately known as MAD, took on Shivaji House's Shivaji Tigers in a basketball game that had everything—speed, intensity, and plenty of roars (mostly from the losing side). The final score, 38-29, tells only half the story. What unfolded was a daring hunt, where MAD students played the role of expert trackers, keeping the Tigers at bay in the most exhilarating game of the season.

The Finals

From the moment the whistle blew, the Shivaji Tigers came charging out like they were straight out of a wildlife documentary, hoping to make MAD their prey. However, what they didn't account for was the laser-focused defence of Madhav House. The boys in red pounced on every loose ball, and it was not long before the scoreboard started swinging in their favour.

By halftime, the Tigers were clawing their way back, cutting the lead to just a few points. But let's face it—when the Madhav House boys are on the prowl, no tiger is safe. With swift passes, sharp shooting, and a strategy as calculated as a wildlife expert's plan to catch a predator, MAD showed their true colours. It was less basketball and more jungle warfare, where precision mattered more than power. The game was filled with highlights—like Madhav's star point guard, Akshay Singh, darting past defenders, as agile as a gazelle, while Shivaji's forwards, no matter how hard they tried, could not quite sink their claws into the game. Every time the Tigers thought they had cornered their prey, Madhav answered with a fast break or a perfectly timed three-pointer.

With two minutes left on the clock, Shivaji House made a desperate final charge, hoping to snatch victory from the jaws of defeat. But by then, it was too late—the Tigers were tired, and MAD was too smart to let the lead slip away. A final flurry of baskets sealed the deal and when the buzzer sounded, it was clear: the Tigers had been well and truly hunted.

As the crowd erupted into cheers (with some tiger growls in the distance), the Madhav boys celebrated their 38-29 victory like seasoned adventurers. Rest assured, the memory of this epic showdown will last far longer.

In the end, the lesson was clear—whether in the jungle or on the court, never underestimate the game sense and speed of Madhav. For now, the Tigers will lick their wounds, but one thing's for sure: the next hunt is already being planned. Stay tuned!

हे भगवान ! ये परीक्षा जब आती है ----
अजनदीप सिंह, कक्षा -7 ए

हे भगवान ! ये पी.टी. वन, जब आते हैं,
बच्चों के मन में डर पैदा कर जाते हैं,
ये हमें खूब रुलाते हैं,
हमारे लिए मुसीबतें पैदा कर जाते हैं ।

16 सितम्बर से परीक्षा है,
हमारी बिलकुल नहीं इच्छा है,
ये मन को बहुत डराती है,
रातों की नींद उड़ाती है।
जैसे ही पेपर हाथ में आता है,
दिल एकदम घबराता है,
मम्मी की याद आती है,
ये परीक्षा हमें बहुत सताती है।
ये परीक्षा किसने बनाई है, बताओ, परीक्षा ये
किसने बनाई है?
उसे हम बच्चों पर दया नहीं आई है,
